

Why Read Books?

When we read books, we have to use our brain and our imagination. Also, someone has to write the books that we read. They have to do the hard work of using their imagination and the hard work of writing. Without this, there would be no place for TV or movie people to get their ideas from.

And what is the difference between TV and books? A good book takes years to write. We can't make them as quickly as most TV programs because books tell a story much more deeply. We all know that TV and video games are great fun, but they don't allow us to exercise our brain and be creative like books do. A book shows a character's feelings and motives much more clearly.

Think about it: Where do many of the stories for great movies and video games come from?

Books, of course.
